FINANCIAL AID MYTHS AND MIS- CONCEPTIONS

MYTHS

VS

FACTS

My family makes too much money, so I won't qualify for aid.

FAFSA is only for federal aid.

Only straight-A students get scholarships.

Applying once is enough.

Many aid programs are available regardless of income.

Colleges and states also use FAFSA info to award their own aid.

Scholarships exist for many qualities, not just grades.

It must be submitted every fall for the next year you're in college.

FACTS

Work-study is automatically placed in my bank account.

Students must work assigned hours and earn a paycheck.

I can wait until I'm accepted to college to apply for aid.

Apply early—priority deadlines mean more aid availability.

Private colleges are always more expensive.

Many private colleges offer generous institutional aid, sometimes making them cheaper than public options.

Loans are free money.

Loans must be repaid with interest—use only what you need.

FACTS

What is a tuition promise program?

- You will not pay for tuition & mandatory fees:

These are university-specific programs that guarantee eligible lower- and middle-income families full coverage of tuition and mandatory fees.

- "Last-Dollar" Funding: They act as gap coverage—after your federal grants (like Pell) and state grants (like TEXAS Grant) are applied, the university pays whatever balance is left over for tuition.
- No Loans Needed for Tuition at most participating schools: Students enrolled in these programs do not have to borrow loans to pay for their tuition and mandatory fees.

Texas Public University Examples

- UT Austin (Texas Advance Commitment): Free tuition for Texas families with an Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) of up to $100,000, with partial tuition support for AGIs up to $125,000.
- University of Houston (Cougar Promise): Free tuition and fees for families earning $65,000 or less, plus partial support up to $85,000.
- Texas State University (Bobcat Promise): Free tuition for Texas families earning up to $100,000 (for top 25% graduates) or up to $50,000 (for all admitted freshmen).

Private University Examples

- Rice University (The Rice Investment): Free tuition, mandatory fees, housing, and food for families earning up to $100,000; free full tuition for families earning between $100,000 and $200,000 (with typical assets).

Examples of International Coverage:

- Yale University: Meets 100% of demonstrated financial need for all admitted undergraduates—including international and undocumented students—regardless of citizenship status.
- Amherst College: Meets 100% of demonstrated financial need for all admitted domestic and international students through a strict no-loan policy, replacing all loans with university grants and scholarships so students can graduate debt-free.
- Columbia University: Meets 100% of demonstrated financial need for all first-year undergraduate students regardless of income, featuring a completely loan-free financial aid policy that replaces student loans with university grant funding.

Promise Program Myths:

- Are only for straight-A students: Most promise programs are need-based, not merit-based.
- Mean that college is 100% free: At most public universities, a "Tuition Promise" covers tuition and mandatory academic fees only. Families still need to plan for housing and meal plans, textbooks, transportation, and personal expenses.
- Have unlimited funding: Qualifying financially is only the first step; you must meet all required deadlines, and promise funds operate on a first-come, first-served basis.
