

In partnership with Marquette University High School, Catholic Charities provides licensed mental health therapists on campus, making it easier for students and families to access the support they need.

Maggie Russell, MS, LPC-IT

Maggie is a Mental Health Therapist at Catholic Charities. She takes a person-centered, supportive approach and believes that a strong therapeutic relationship built on trust, safety and authenticity is essential to meaningful growth. Her goal is to create a welcoming space where students feel comfortable showing up as they are while working toward goals that are meaningful to them.

Before entering the counseling field, she earned a degree in education and taught high school English in Milwaukee and Tianjin, China. Alongside her work as a teacher and her path toward earning her LPC-IT, Maggie has also spent the past 12 years serving in a variety of ministerial roles within the Archdiocese of Milwaukee.

She lives on Milwaukee's east side and has a dog, Dottie, and a cat, Mozzarella. Outside of work, Maggie enjoys going to concerts to discover new music, browsing thrift shops for hidden gems, curling up in an armchair with a good book, or heading outside to watercolor.
