Psychological Evaluation: $3,500

Full academic evaluation plus assessment for attention, executive functions, and/or memory issues.

Autism Evaluation: $4,000

The evaluation uses standardized tests, performance tasks, and behavioral scales to assess cognitive, academic, social, emotional, and developmental functioning, with additional assessments tailored to the child's specific needs. In addition, performance-based tasks and behavioral rating scales that are specifically relevant to the diagnosis of autism are administered to examine social communication, restricted interests, and patterns of behavior.

Speech-Language Evaluation: $850

Assessment of vocabulary, comprehension of oral language, working memory, speech production, and pragmatic language.

Social-Emotional Assessment: +$300

A social-emotional assessment can be added on to any of the evaluations for an additional $300.

Consultations: $500 + $250 for each additional hour

Parents of children who struggle academically often seek an impartial professional to review testing results, discuss school placement options, or get guidance on next steps.

School Observations: $250 per hour

Optional school observations can enhance the diagnostic process by providing insight into a child's learning and coping style in their school environment. Their necessity varies by case and can be discussed during the initial conference; additional mileage fees may apply for observations over 30 miles.
