Mr. Webb (Dorian Rozanski) brags about his trip to his alma matter

This is our Town

Griffin's Eye View

"Our Town was a great opening show, with a great cast. They were really fun to work with. It truly gave us a new perspective of small town life in the early 1900's"
~ Mike Hegger

Griffin Theatre presents Our Town as first production of 2011-2012 season

George Gibbs (Joe LaMartina) and Emily Webb (Courtney Huels) confess their feelings for each other

Mrs. Webb (Alicen Moser), Ms. Soames (Maddi Wahle), and Mrs. Gibbs (Caitlin McGrath) talk about Stimson's drunken antics

Ian Wohlstader pours George Gibbs (Joe LaMartina) and Emily Webb (Courtney Huels) a strawberry phosphate

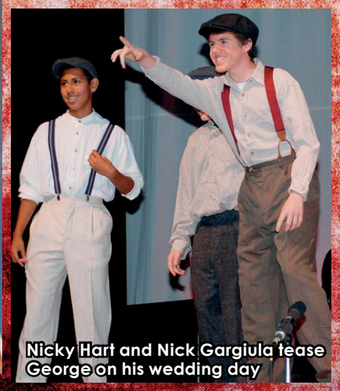

Mrs. Gibbs (Caitlin McGrath) helps Mrs. Webb (Alicen Moser) peel beans while gossiping

The Story

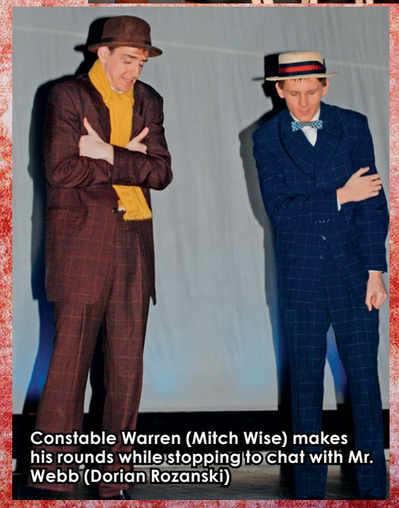

Written by Thorton Wilder, Our Town explores the lives of people living in a small, quintessentially American town. It was first produced in 1938 and received the Pulitzer Prize for Literature.
The play is divided into three aspects of the human experience:
ACT ONE: Daily Life
ACT TWO: Love / Marriage
ACT THREE: Death / Loss

George Gibbs (Joe LaMartina) and Rebecca Gibbs (Mary Burwinkel) contemplate life under the moon.

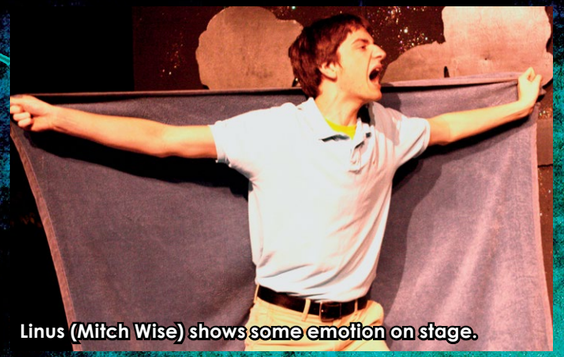

Nicky Hart and Nick Gargiula tease George on his wedding day

Constable Warren (Mitch Wise) makes his rounds while stopping to chat with Mr. Webb (Dorian Rozanski)

Sam Craig (Dylan Norris) visits the graveyard while Mrs. Gibbs (Caitlin McGrath) and Simon Stimson (Alex Muenster) look on from the afterlife

Linus (Mitch Wise) shows some emotion on stage.

Charlie (Joe LaMartina) listens as the others tell him what a good man he is.

Charlie Brown (Joe LaMartina) belts out the closing number.

Making History

For the first time in Vianney history, director Al Book took the Griffin players on tour. They performed You're A Good Man Charlie Brown at several area grade schools.

The Griffin players travel to Immaculate Heart of Mary to perform for the youngsters.
