Comments

Board Member Steve Corona shared several upcoming opportunities related to education and legislative issues. He encouraged Board members to participate in a September 23 webinar he is facilitating with Indiana Department of Education Chief Innovation Officer Ron Sandlin regarding A–F accountability. He also discussed an upcoming event in Warsaw involving elected officials and a proposal to eliminate property taxes, noting the importance of understanding the potential impact on schools and other local services. Looking ahead to the ISBA Annual Conference, he shared that Columbia City Mayor Ryan Daniel, president of the association representing Indiana municipalities, has been invited to participate, emphasizing the importance of local elected officials, school boards and education leaders coming together on issues affecting their communities.

Board Member Julie Hollingsworth congratulated Wayne High School's Air Force Junior ROTC for earning its first Distinguished Unit Award, noting that the program completed 1,926 hours of community service last school year. She also discussed differences in state requirements for public and private schools regarding shortened school weeks. She expressed concern that public schools face specific requirements before adopting a shortened week while a private school operating three days a week recently received state accreditation, making it eligible for vouchers. She emphasized her belief that public and private schools should operate under a level playing field.

Board Member Antonette Payne congratulated the district's teachers and employees of the year recipients and reflected on the significant influence educators can have on students, sharing the positive impact one teacher had on her own child. She also thanked the parents, students and community members who spoke in support of Coach BJ and highlighted the importance of representation among teachers, staff and coaches. She encouraged community members to remain involved in students' lives by continuing to support activities such as study tables and other opportunities that help students thrive.

Superintendent Dr. Mark Daniel introduced two new members of the FWCS leadership team. He welcomed Nikki Quintana as the district's new General Counsel, highlighting her more than 14 years of legal, public-sector leadership and community engagement experience, including her previous leadership with the City of Fort Wayne Metropolitan Human Relations Commission. He also welcomed Brett Gauger as Director of Marketing, noting his experience in digital marketing, communications and community engagement, as well as his involvement with several Fort Wayne organizations.

Board President Noah Smith remembered former FWCS educator Wanda Windham, who recently passed away, reflecting on the significant influence she had on him, his brothers and generations of students. He recalled her commitment to making learning meaningful, challenging students to do their best and providing individualized support. He also congratulated the 2026-27 South Side Athletic Hall of Fame inductees and shared a personal memory of inductee and former coach Marvin Stewart. He reflected on how Mr. Stewart's message to keep pushing and finish the job stayed with him for more than 40 years, illustrating the lasting impact educators and coaches can have on students.
