Mr. Scholl's SCIENCE COMES TO LIFE

Our Special Topics in Science students recently put their creativity, problem-solving skills, and scientific thinking to the test with an Egg Drop Challenge! Students designed and built protective structures to keep an egg safe when dropped from a height. The activity encouraged students to apply concepts of physics and engineering while working collaboratively, testing their designs, and learning from both successes and failures. It was a fun, hands-on way to make science come to life in the classroom!

Staff, Student, Athlete of the Month

Student of the Month

Aryan Colwell

We are extremely impressed with Aryan's determination to improve his grades and work hard toward meeting his goals.

Staff Member of the Month

Rachel Schmitt

Ms. Schmitt has done an amazing job revitalizing our band and choir programs. It was great to see the band marching in the parade and their presence at sporting events has been awesome.

Athletes of the Month

Kaiden Nordeck

Jackson Smith

These two soccer players received an IHSA Exemplary Behavior report after their game vs Greenfield. The referee reported they always gave their best effort and had positive attitudes.

A NOTE FROM MS WEAVER

Seniors, now is a great time to apply for college or a trade school. If you are thinking about college, apply before November 1st. If you applied through Common App, I will upload information during fall break. 21st Century Scholars, make sure you are completing your tasks.
