Title I Parents' Right-to-Know: Partnering for Your Child's Success

At Millstone Schools, we believe that a strong partnership between home and school is the foundation of student success. We are incredibly proud of our dedicated teaching staff, and we want to ensure you have all the information you need regarding your child's daily learning environment.

In accordance with the federal Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), you have the right to request information about the professional qualifications of your child's classroom teachers and instructional support staff.

How We Share Staff Qualifications With You

If you ever have questions or wish to make a formal inquiry, our district will promptly share:

- Whether your child's teacher holds full state qualification and licensing for the specific grades and subjects they teach.
- If a teacher is working under an emergency or provisional status where standard licensing criteria have been temporarily waived.
- The teacher's college major and any graduate degrees or advanced certifications they have earned.
- Whether your child receives extra help from an instructional aide or paraprofessional, along with their professional qualifications.

Supporting Our Learners Throughout the Year

To give our students an extra boost exactly when they need it, several of our schools host Targeted Assistance Programs (TAP). Rather than a whole-school model, TAP focuses extra resources, small-group attention, and specialized coaching on students who can benefit most from a little extra academic support in core subjects.

Because children grow and learn at different paces, our team reviews academic progress on a continuous basis throughout the year. If our ongoing benchmark updates show that your child qualifies for these extra TAP services, your school principal will reach out to you directly to welcome you to the program before services begin.
