KING SCHOOL WEEKLY NEWS

Independent Study for Short-Term Absences

Independent Study can help your child stay caught up with classroom learning while also receiving attendance credit for completed schoolwork. Independent Study is available for short-term absences of up to 15 days per school year.

How the Process Works:

As soon as possible, email the school office with the dates your child will be absent and the reason for the absence. Sign and return the Short-Term Independent Study Master Agreement.

Independent Study packets will be emailed to you or may be picked up in the school office.

Students must complete one packet for each day absent and return all work to the school office within five days.

Students will need access to their Clever account to use Benchmark and Freckle. Your child's teacher can assist with login information.

Once the completed work is returned and verified by the classroom teacher, eligible absences will be credited through Independent Study.

Please contact the school office as early as possible so we can help make the process smooth for your family.

While independent study is available for short and long-term absences, nothing takes the place of being at school!
