DIRECTOR'S NOTE

Welcome to the world of Bright Ideas, where everything is a little louder, a little faster, and a little more extreme than the world we know. Eric Coble has built a playground where ambition has no brakes and the line between right and wrong have blurred until they are hard to find.

At its heart, Bright Ideas is a modern reflection of Shakespeare's Macbeth. Centuries later, the question is the same, how far will we go to get what we want? Like Macbeth, these characters never set out to be villians. They take one small compromise at a time until they find themselves somewhere they never meant to be.

While I inherited this production, this cast made it ours. Their collaboration, their risks, and their full commitment to a world this bold, allowed me to see the sharp humor behind these larger than life characters.

Thank you to the students, the families, and the people behind this production for bringing this playground to life.

Most of all, thank you, for being here and supporting these young artists.

Enjoy the show!
