Introduction

The purpose of the American Legion Oratorical Contest is to encourage a deeper knowledge and appreciation of the Constitution of the United States among high school students and to encourage their oral expression in a public manner. Other objectives of the contest gauge a student's ability to speak clearly and with expression as students present their ideas about the freedoms and responsibilities of American citizenship in a convincing manner.

Scholarships are awarded by the American Legion of Tennessee and in cooperation with the National American Legion organization. Winners may use their scholarship to attend any accredited college or university, junior college or vocational trade school within the United States following graduation from high school, unless the winner enters service in the Armed Forces, which would extend the eligibility period. There are four different competitions a student could advance through, District, Division, Department (State) , and the National Contest. Cash awards and scholarships are offered at all four levels of the competition. The National winner advancing through the state and national contests could receive up to $28,000 in cash and scholarships.

The contest begins at the local level, as sponsored by members of an American Legion post in your community. Students interested in competing must coordinate with their local American Legion post for a sponsor and complete the official application. We recommend students and parents first meet with a leader from their local Legion post to discuss the competition and offer a practice presentation of their speech. The meeting can be held at a student's school. Applications must reach the American Legion of Tennessee, Department Headquarters by January 22, 2027.

Program Facts

The American Legion National High School Oratorical Program was first conducted in 1938. Since its beginnings, over 30,000 contestants have participated at the National contest, representing each of the 50 states and territories where the American Legion has members.

The Department of Tennessee awards over $ 6,000 to contestants who compete within the state-level competition each year. The winner of the State competition advances to the National competition held in May of each year at Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Michigan, to compete against each winner from all 50 states and U.S. territories. Those representing their state at the National contest will receive no less than $2,000 along with travel expenses.

Rules and Regulations for Contestants

Students are expected to present two timed oral speeches totally from memory to an audience of Legion members, parents, and oratorical speech judges and other interested attendees.

The first speech is called the Prepared oration. Each student is allowed to present their speech on any aspect of the U.S. Constitution as their creativity takes them. Hopefully, each student will relate their views on aspects of a citizen's duties and obligations to our democracy as provided in the precepts of our Constitution, but they can pursue any aspect of what the Constitution says and how it relates to our society and American culture today. Complete freedom is given to students to offer thoughts on their knowledge and opinions, as inspired oral expression. Their timed speech must last at least eight (8) minutes and not exceed ten (10) minutes. The same subject and oration used in the three levels of the Department contest must be used in the National contest. The oration must bear a title.

The Assigned oration will be randomly drawn from a listing of four potential topics as described in this bulletin. The intent of the assigned topic is to test the speaker's subject knowledge and extent of research and creativity in making a convincing argument to support their convictions. The assigned speech must last for a minimum of three (3) minutes and not exceed five (5) minutes.
