A safe start to the school day

Before-school activities begin at 6:45 a.m. at Emmett Middle School, helping working families with an early drop-off option while giving students a safe, welcoming, and enriching place to go before classes begin.

CenturyCenturyNew this year, Make Monday Matter brings students together on Monday mornings for music, reflection, and short discussions focused on character, personal growth, and skills that support success in school and beyond. Students may also request appropriate songs and reflect on why the music is meaningful or motivating to them.

CHESS CLUB

Chess Club continues in the EMS library, giving students a quiet, welcoming place to play with peers while strengthening concentration, problem-solving, planning, and strategic-thinking skills.

BEFORE-SCHOOL BASKETBALL

The EMS gym is open for students who prefer an active start to the day. Basketball encourages physical activity, teamwork, positive peer interaction, and a productive way to use energy before school.

TUESDAY BREAKFAST CLUB

During teachers' weekly Professional Learning Community (PLC) meetings, students can participate in Tuesday Breakfast Club. Students have a supervised place to gather, eat breakfast, socialize, and prepare for the school day.

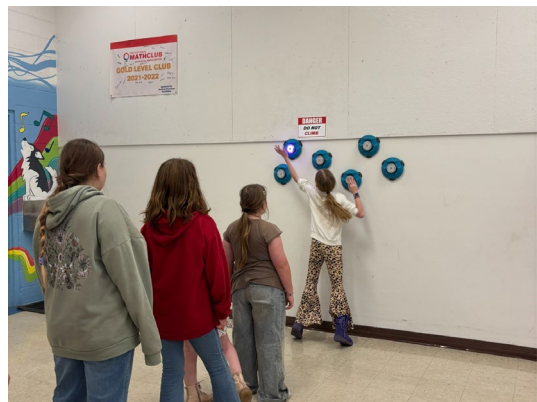

21st CCLC SUPPORTS STUDENTS AND FAMILIES

All of these before-school opportunities are made possible through the 21st Century Community Learning Centers grant. By extending access to EMS beyond the traditional school day, the grant supports working families while giving students positive choices, meaningful connections, and enriching experiences.
