HOMECOMING

Homecoming 2026 kicked off Friday afternoon with an exciting pep rally hosted by the J-T High School Student Council! Wildcats came together to show their school spirit, celebrate their classes and teams, and build excitement for a fun-filled Homecoming weekend.

Homecoming Royalty

Congratulations to this year's Homecoming Prince and Princess, Val Hetzel and Josey Ainsworth, and Homecoming King and Queen, Ethan Cook and Piper Warren!

HOMECOMING PARADE

Classic Cartoons

Congratulations to our Juniors, the Class of 2028, for taking home this year's Homecoming Float Award! Their hard work and creativity helped make this year's parade a fantastic success!

A special thank you to our judges for taking the time to be part of this tradition, and to every class that put so much time, effort, and creativity into their amazing floats. Each class helped make Homecoming 2026 a memorable celebration filled with Wildcat Pride!

INSIDE THE CLASSROOMS

Seniors Explore Barn Gothic with Author Ryan Dennis

After spending a week in Wisconsin promoting his book Barn Gothic: Three Generations and the Death of the Family Farm, Ryan Dennis, who grew up on a dairy farm outside Canaseraga and currently lives in Ireland, visited Mr. Ford's senior English class last Tuesday. During the first quarter, the seniors focus on book clubs and personal writing, so the timing was perfect for a visit by a professional writer—especially since the students were just finishing Barn Gothic for their first book club. Dennis began by reading an excerpt about his dad taking time away from work to watch him fly-fish, a poignant passage that illustrated his father's interest in his life and willingness to let him become someone different from him. Dennis fielded a variety of questions from students and staff regarding his book, his life, and his writing process and work as a professional writer. The students were especially interested in an early scene where his family saw their tractor being driven past their home by a stranger (it was being repossessed, but no one knew because Grandpa hadn't told anyone that he hadn't been making the payments) and in Grandpa's handkerchief strategy. (Don't ask.) The participants appreciated being part of a very interesting and meaningful seminar. Mr. Ford recommends the book as a great father-son story with lots of family drama; the students also recommend the book—especially to readers interested in farming.

Freshman & Sophomore English Update

The freshman and sophomore English classes have been busy these past five weeks.

The freshmen are working with non-fiction texts, learning how to locate main ideas and supporting details while sharpening their skills in summarizing. These students are also practicing the correct use of evidence in writing and creating Work Cited entries; both of these skills show authenticity and care in essay formation. Shortly, they will start a research paper that will feature these various skills.

The sophomore theme for the year is How does a character's need for community, belonging, and identity affect his or her decisions, actions, and behaviors? The students just finished the Anglo-Saxon epic Beowulf, in which the hero lived by a strict code as he served his community. After a writing assignment that addresses our theme, the students will read short poems on the same theme.

Both classes are encouraged to read for pleasure, and on the first day of school, the students signed out library books. Any "downtime" in class is filled with independent reading. Many have already finished their first reads and signed out new books. Bravo!

Ag 7: Putting Their Tool Knowledge to the Test!

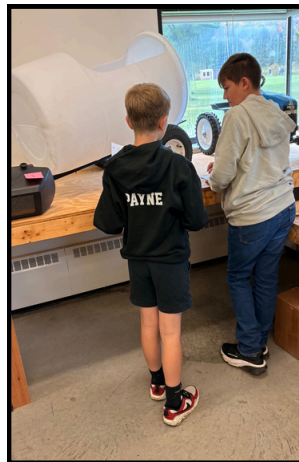

The 7th grade Ag students recently wrapped up their FFA unit and jumped into a hands-on introduction to one of our popular junior high Career Development Event (CDE) competitions: Jr. Hand Tool Identification!

Students headed into the shop, where tools were set up throughout the room and labeled with numbers. Their first challenge was to identify as many tools as possible using their existing knowledge. After having some time to test their skills, students received a word bank to help them continue identifying the tools and build their familiarity with the different names.

Once everyone had time to work through the challenge, we reviewed the tools together as a class, discussing the correct names and giving students an opportunity to learn from one another.

This activity was just a brief introduction to the competition, and we have plenty more to learn! Students will soon dive deeper into tool identification while also learning how to properly use many of these tools in the shop. They also got a glimpse of just how much there is to know, as the tools featured in this activity represented only a small portion of the extensive identification list used at the state level.

We're excited to continue building students' knowledge and hands-on skills as we prepare for future opportunities to put their learning to the test!

Ag 8: Finding Their Voice Through Public Speaking

The 8th grade Ag students have wrapped up their research and recently presented their two-minute prepared speeches to the class! Topics varied widely, ranging from production agriculture and pet care to the role of digital media in agriculture. This impressive variety helped reinforce one of our biggest takeaways: agriculture is about so much more than farming! It is a diverse field with connections to countless careers, industries, and everyday activities.

One of the highlights of this project was seeing students put their public speaking skills into action. We were incredibly proud of the confidence and ability many students demonstrated, and some even surprised themselves with what they could accomplish! Whether speaking in front of a group comes naturally or feels like a challenge, learning to communicate clearly and confidently is a valuable skill that will benefit students far beyond the Ag classroom.

After the presentations, students reflected on the assignment and shared their thoughts about the experience. While many admitted that public speaking wasn't necessarily something they would choose to do, they also recognized the value of the opportunity. Students even offered thoughtful suggestions for improving the project in the future, including allowing more time to memorize their speeches and providing greater flexibility in choosing their topics.

We are hoping to revisit a similar public speaking project toward the end of the school year. This will give students an opportunity to put their skills to the test again, reflect on how far they have come, and see just how much they have grown as speakers throughout the year. We can't wait to see what they accomplish next!

Exploring Agricultural Careers at Alfred State

Last week, students from various agriculture classes in grades 9–12 traveled to Alfred State's Farm for the annual VAST CDE Day! This is an experience our students look forward to each year, offering a wide variety of hands-on learning opportunities they may not otherwise have the chance to experience.

Throughout the day, students rotated through stations covering a variety of agricultural fields and career pathways. Activities included operating an excavator, competing in a skid steer skills challenge, performing ultrasounds on pregnant goats, wiring electrical circuits, conducting health checks on calves, laying brick, practicing artificial insemination on a cow simulator, performing simulated veterinary surgical procedures, and much more!

Whether students were trying something completely new or demonstrating skills they had already developed, the day offered valuable opportunities to learn by doing. Students also gained insight into the many programs and career opportunities available at Alfred State.

VAST CDE Day provides a unique opportunity for students to explore their interests, discover new possibilities, and experience firsthand the many directions a future in agriculture can take. Experiences like these help students connect what they learn in the classroom to real-world skills and potential career paths!

Sophomore Career Day

10th graders were able to explore and hear from industry professionals during the annual Sophomore Career Day at Alfred State College.

Career Cafe with the NYS Troopers Canine Unit

JT kicked off its first Career Cafe of the year with the New York State Trooper's Canine Unit. Students in grades 7-12 had the opportunity to speak with Trooper Salyerds and Trooper Martek to learn more about careers in law enforcement during their lunch hour. Students and Staff were then able to observe a demonstration by K9 DJ, an Electronic Storage Device detecting K9. DJ is an energetic Chocolate Lab!

Growing Connections with Invenergy

Invenergy recently visited with our 7th and 8th grade Agriculture students to share more about the company, the work they do, and the career opportunities available in the energy industry. Students had the opportunity to learn about Invenergy's work, hear about the visitors' roles, and ask questions to learn more about the field.

In addition to providing valuable career insight, Invenergy also presented our FFA chapter with a generous donation to help offset expenses for members attending the National FFA Convention next week. We appreciate Invenergy taking the time to connect with our students and support our future FFA leaders!

October Athletes of the Month: Varsity Soccer

Congratulations to Gavin Mills and Briella Bradley, our October Athletes of the Month for Varsity Soccer! Both athletes have demonstrated outstanding effort, sportsmanship, and dedication to their team.

Coach Gunn shares the following about Gavin: "Gavin has shined at his role on defense and helped the team stop many opposing plays on goal. He is a team player and has a great attitude on and off the field."

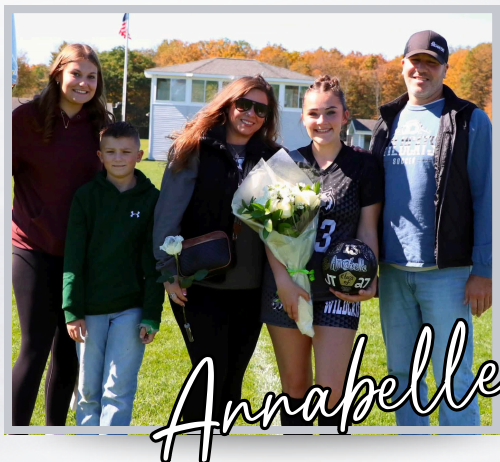

Coach Liberto recognizes Briella's contributions, stating: "Briella Bradley is a great kid who's respectful to others on and off the field. Elly has also done a great job on the field through her relentless effort, passing, and scoring. She truly demonstrates what it means to be a Wildcat in the work she puts in day in and day out."

Congratulations to Gavin and Briella on this well-deserved recognition! Way to represent J-T and show your Wildcat pride!
