7. COMMUNICATIONS TO THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

A. Chula Vista Classified Employees Organization (CVCEO)

CVCEO President Ruby Williams addressed the Board of Education and thanked the District for implementing modified recess, lunch, and physical education schedules during periods of extreme heat to help protect students and staff. She expressed concern regarding heat conditions on District buses and noted that some students being transported have medical conditions that may make it difficult to regulate body temperature.

Ms. Williams encouraged the District to explore grants and funding opportunities for cooling upgrades, provide temperature monitoring devices on buses, require reporting when temperatures exceed safe levels, and consider practical cooling measures for drivers and students.

Ms. Williams also addressed concerns regarding health benefit costs for classified employees. She stated that classified employees continue to face rising health care costs and noted differences in District health benefit contributions among employee groups. She urged the Board to consider equitable health care support, safe working conditions, and meaningful investment in classified employees.

Ms. Williams concluded by asking the Board to continue addressing student and staff health and safety, including heat conditions on buses, and to support classified employees who serve students every day.

B. Chula Vista Educators (CVE)

CVE President Rosi Martinez congratulated Innovation Teacher Jesse Rogers on his recognition for his work at the Sound Station.

Ms. Martinez shared that the first day of parent conferences would begin the following day and expressed hope that teachers and families would have productive conversations and continue building strong partnerships in support of students.

Ms. Martinez spoke about the importance of manageable class sizes, minimizing combination classes when possible, providing professional development and student supports, and maintaining facilities. She also addressed school funding and stated CVE's support for Proposition 3. Ms. Martinez stated that Proposition 3 would extend existing tax rates on the highest-income Californians, which she said have supported investments in education, health care, school lunches, smaller class sizes, mental health counselors, and Medi-Cal coverage. She stated that, without Proposition 3, California public schools and community colleges could face significant cuts, and CVESD could lose approximately $32 million per year, resulting in potential teacher layoffs, larger class sizes, more combination classes, and reduced support staff and resources.

Ms. Martinez also shared CVE's concerns regarding campaign materials and candidates for the Board of Education, including Trustee Delia Dominguez Cervantes and Keren Ramirez Dominguez, who she stated opposed propositions that support the well-being of the community. She emphasized the importance of collaboration, trust, and continued support for public schools.

Ms. Martinez concluded by wishing everyone a restful fall break and shared that CVE would be engaging with the community about the upcoming election.

C. Administrators Association Chula Vista (AACV)

AACV President Ruth Diaz de Leon recognized the work of school administrators as the District approached the end of the first quarter. She shared that administrators continued to manage the daily demands of school leadership while keeping students safe, supported, and challenged to grow academically, socially, and emotionally.

Ms. Diaz de Leon expressed appreciation to Superintendent Dr. Reyes and Deputy Superintendent Sharon Casey for their collaborative engagement with principals and their willingness to listen, engage in dialogue, and value the collective voices of site leaders. She highlighted Dr. Reyes' principal lunch meetings as meaningful opportunities to strengthen relationships, build trust, and support principals in their professional goals and leadership.

Ms. Diaz de Leon also recognized the many roles administrators fulfill each day, from instructional and operational leadership to providing care, reassurance, and support to students and families. She stated that these daily acts of compassion and leadership help ensure students feel cared for, seen, and ready to learn.

Dr. Reyes shared that the Expanded Learning Opportunities Program (ELOP) had developed a wide range of programs across District school sites. He introduced ELOP Director Omar Calleros to present the highlight.

He shared that the program grew from limited after-school and intersession opportunities to more than 1,000 activities districtwide, serving approximately 10,000 students across 43 school sites.

Mr. Calleros also highlighted LEAD Academy, which provides intersession programming at six school sites and serves up to 1,200 students on non-school days. He shared that the program offers a safe, caring, and nurturing environment, including meals, snacks, field trips, and enrichment activities.

A video was shown highlighting student and family experiences in LEAD clubs. Students and parents shared the positive impact of the program and the opportunities it provides for students to explore new activities, build skills, and develop as leaders.
