Johnson Senior High School Family Engagement Plan
SY2026-27-Draft

Johnson Aerospace & Engineering High School is committed to student growth and achievement through the collaboration of staff, parents/guardians, students, and community members. Johnson is a Title I school. Title I is a part of U.S. education law that provides extra help for students to learn at their grade level and to graduate on time.

One important requirement of Title I is that schools have a plan for working with families. Johnson's plan tells how all families can be involved in planning, how teachers and families will work together to help students learn, and the events and resources offered to support family engagement. You can find information and ways to be involved by visiting Johnson's school website at https://www.spps.org/johnsonsr and clicking on the families tab.

Johnson families can be involved in planning for family engagement and student support by:

- Participating in the Parent Advisory Committee (PAC), which meets bi-monthly with the principal and each spring helps with the development of the Family Engagement Plan (FEP)
- Attending parent-teacher conferences
- Attending our annual open house and Title I meeting at the beginning of each school year
- Participating in the review and discussion of Johnson's School Comprehensive Improvement Plan (SCIP). This plan covers the support and strategies our school uses to help students learn

Johnson's entire school staff, families, and students share responsibility for student learning by:

- Participating in quarterly parent-teacher conferences, held in October, December, & March
- Using the family-school compact to discuss high expectations and ways the school, students, and parents/guardians agree to support student learning
- Checking-in regarding student progress by using tools such as Campus Parent, Schoology and other means of communication chosen by the school and families such as email, text messages and phone calls and the bi-weekly family newsletter

We build the capacity of the Johnson community for strong family engagement by:
