What is it?	James S. Hogg Middle School, an International Baccalaureate World School and Nationally Certified STEM Magnet School, partners with parents and the community to improve student academic achievement. Parents help their children learn, participate in school activities, and serve as full partners in educational decisions and advisory committees.
Funding	Hogg will involve parents of children served by Title I, Part A in decisions about how the 1 percent of Title I, Part A funds reserved for parental involvement is spent. Hogg will ensure that not less than 95 percent of that reserved amount goes directly to Hogg Middle School. The annual Title I meeting will explain the program, its major strategies, and the use of allocated funds.
Review	A representative group of parents and school staff will jointly develop and review this policy and revise it as needed. Parents will receive the policy and opportunities to suggest changes. An annual district parent survey will guide meetings and activities. Parent comments on an unsatisfactory schoolwide plan will be submitted to HISD.
Family Meetings	Hogg will hold an annual Title I meeting to explain participation, requirements, parent rights, program strategies, and funding. Four parent meetings will be offered, with flexible morning or evening options. Invitations and reminders will be shared through flyers, the school webpage, newsletters, and marquee. Annual Title I meeting options are October 1, 2026, and October 27, 2026.
How to Be Involved	Parents may participate through PTO meetings, the Shared Decision-Making Committee (SDMC), Title I meetings, parent conferences, surveys, and policy or compact reviews. Families may request reasonable support for participation. Hogg will provide opportunities for parents with limited English proficiency, parents with disabilities, and parents of migratory children.

Family Trainings / Activities

James S. Hogg Middle School will provide materials, training, and opportunities that help families support student learning and become involved in their children's education. Family activities include:

- Family Literacy Night and information about reading strategies.

- Family STEAM activities that connect families with student learning.

- Literacy and technology training, as appropriate, to help parents work with their children and improve academic achievement.

- Parent meetings, training courses, and programs about helping children stay organized, complete homework, read, write, and assume responsibility for their learning.

- PTO-related information and resources or information from outside agencies.

- Guidance on Texas academic content and performance standards, including TEKS and STAAR, school and district assessments, and Title I, Part A requirements.

- Parent conferences, progress reports, and report cards in mathematics, English language arts, science, and social studies to help families monitor student progress.

- An annual district parent survey to help design activities around community needs. Parents may also participate in district consultation meetings about federal programs.

Hogg will coordinate parental involvement activities with other federal programs available on campus. Information will be provided in understandable formats and, to the extent practicable, in a language families understand. Standard communications include English and Spanish versions of the policy, compact, announcements, and newsletters. Campus translators are available to assist families.

Curriculum	Curriculum and student expectations will be explained to families, including Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills (TEKS). Information will address mathematics, English language arts, science, and social studies.
Forms of Academic Assessments	Families will receive information about school and district assessments and the State of Texas Assessments of Academic Readiness (STAAR). Parent conferences, progress reports, and report cards will help families monitor student progress.
Expected Achievement Levels on Academic Assessments	Hogg will explain Texas academic content and performance standards and how the district measures student performance. Families will receive information about their child's and the school's STAAR results.
Ways to Request Regular Meetings	Parents may contact the school to request a conference, a regular meeting, or reasonable support for participation. Hogg will offer flexible morning or evening meetings. Opportunities also include PTO, SDMC, and Title I meetings.
School-Parent Compact	Hogg will hold a Title I meeting to review and/or revise the School-Parent Compact with families. The compact will explain how parents, school staff, and students share responsibility for each student's academic success. The compact will be distributed to families in an understandable format and, to the extent practicable, a language they understand, including English and Spanish. The separate School-Parent Compact should be used with this policy.
