East Knox FFA attends National FFA Convention

Recently members of the East Knox FFA attended the National Convention in Indianapolis, Indiana. We had six members amongst over 70,000 FFA members in attendance from all of the United States. Members that went to the convention included (LtoR): Ava Page, Miranda Fawcett, Brayden Moran, Garrett Wesney, Bryar Wilson, and Noah Beckley.

During the National Convention the chapter participated in many activities while they attended the convention. The convention included a large career show for the students to attend. The career show boasts more than 1,300 booths representing agriculture-related companies, colleges, US Armed Forces and much, much more. The students also attended a leadership workshop on “Be Kind to Your Mind!”. In the convention sessions students learned how to “Evolve, Engage, and Empower” their leadership skills, and they learned how they could also encourage their local chapter members to reach their potential and grow as well. The chapter also enjoyed the World’s Toughest Rodeo and even a hypnotist show. They were then joined by two of our collegiate FFA members who received their American FFA Degrees on the convention stage, Hayden Baker and Blake Elliott.
