Unfinished Business	No unfinished business
Review and Recommendation to Approve of Proposed Book Purchase List	SLAC members discussed the proposed book purchase list. Key points of the discussion included: ● Lisa Stultz addressed annotations questioning the adult interest level of several high school titles. She explained that books marketed to adults may be considered with additional research by the recommending librarian, such as consulting further review sources and other library professionals. ● The council discussed titles without professional reviews and the importance of consistent review practices. Ms. Stultz shared supplemental resources and reviewed Board Policy EFB, clarifying that professional reviews are one of several factors used in selecting library materials. ● Ms. Stultz explained that several classic titles had been requested by an AP teacher to support AP testing and that those titles were likely in the collection in the past but had been weeded. Titles previously weeded from the district's collections must go through the approval process before being added again.

- A council member asked about donated books. Ms. Stultz confirmed that donated titles remain unprocessed and inaccessible to students until Board approval.
- The council discussed potentially sensitive historical content in the high school title Searching for Jane Crow. Members discussed its suitability for older high school students, and no request was made to hold the title for further review.

Lesly Poer moved that the September proposed book list be recommended to the board for final approval. Lucas Holl seconded the motion. The motion passed.
