Head of School Search Update

To the Berkshire School Community,

On the heels of the October 8 announcement that the 2027-28 school year will be Pieter Mulder's final year under the Mountain, we are writing to share several important updates regarding our Head of School search.

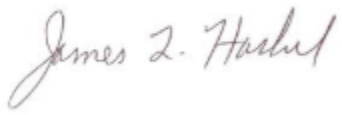

First, we are pleased to announce that the Search Committee has been formed. Composed of 12 members, including trustees, parents, alumni, faculty, and staff, this group represents a rich variety of perspectives, professional backgrounds, skillsets, and experiences. Above all, each member holds a deep love for Berkshire and a shared investment in the School's future. The Board of Trustees has full confidence in this team's collective ability to guide our search and select our next Head of School.

Second, we have launched a dedicated Head of School Search page on the Berkshire website that will serve as a central resource throughout every phase of the process. We encourage you to visit regularly for updates.

In early November, our search partners from Isaacson, Miller will be on campus to gather feedback from students, faculty, and staff. This critical input will inform the drafting of the position profile that will guide our candidate outreach and selection process. We look forward to sharing this once final.

Thank you for your continued engagement and support as members of our Berkshire community.
