Math Monthly

NOVEMBER 2026

MATH MESSAGE

As we head into November, we are focusing on how math connects to our everyday lives and seasonal traditions. From measuring ingredients for a holiday meal to counting autumn leaves, fall is full of natural opportunities to practice math together!

SEASONAL MATH FUN

Leaf Symmetry

Go on a nature walk and collect a variety of fallen leaves. Look closely at the leaves and find a line of symmetry. A line of symmetry is an imaginary line that splits a shape or object into two equal halves that are exact mirror images of each other. Carefully cut the leaf on the line of symmetry. Tape or glue the half of a leaf to a blank sheet of paper. Draw the missing half. Have them draw the inner vein branches to match the real half, then color or shade the drawing to replicate the original colors and spots.

STREAM FOCUS

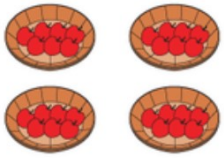

Botonists are a special kind of scientist who study all aspects of plant life including leaves and why they change color in the fall. Dr. David Lee is a retired botanist from Florida International University and author of the acclaimed book Nature's Palette: The Science of Plant Color, Dr. Lee focused much of his academic career on how and why leaves change color.

CLASSROOM HIGHLIGHT

3rd grade is such a pivotal year for math learning! The focus switches from addition and subtraction to multiplication and fractions. 3rd grade students have recently begun exploring repeated addition, equal groups, and arrays as a way to model multiplication. Throughout the year they will continue practicing strategies to to quickly solve multiplication and division problems within 100 and exploring the concept of fractions.

Equal Groups
4 groups of 7
4 x 7

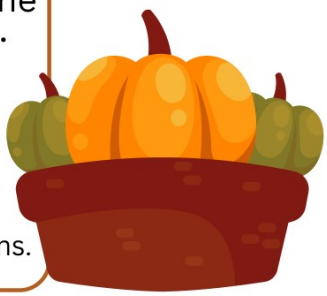

Array
3 rows and 5 columns
3 x 5

FAMILY CORNER

November can be a time to focus on being thankful. Here is a math game to play as a family to practice math facts and help focus on gratitude.

Gratitude Roll

You only need two dice and a piece of paper to play this quick game!
Take turns rolling two dice.
Add (or multiply, for older students) the two numbers together.
Name that many things you are grateful for! The person with the highest sum after 3 rounds wins.

ATTENDANCE MATTERS. ALL DAY, EVERY DAY

Olympic Attendance Goals:

Daily Attendance 93% and on time 94%

Lost & Found

Wow, those coats/jackets look so nice. But, did you put your name on it? Most forget this little step. It makes it much quicker and easier to locate missing items when the students name is written in/on the item. Items without names are kept in Lost & Found rack Please check the rack for missing coats. At the end of the year unclaimed coats will be donated.
