Joining this lawsuit would allow Oldham County Schools to advocate for the interests of our students, families, and taxpayers by seeking accountability for the documented impacts social media platforms have had on youth mental health, student well-being, and school resources. Our schools continue to address the consequences of increased anxiety, depression, cyberbullying, and other social-emotional challenges that have been linked to excessive social media use. Participating in this action ensures that our district has a voice in efforts to recover costs, support student services, and promote safer online environments for children.
