Celebrate #NCFarmers from the Mountains to the Sea!

In 2023, the North Carolina General Assembly established the second Thursday in November as N.C. Farmer Appreciation Day as an opportunity to thank all our farmers and farm families. The inaugural event is November 6, 2025.

North Carolina is rich in agriculture from the mountains to the sea. The farmers that produce food, fiber, and fuel in our state do so with heart and pride. Learn more and find resources to celebrate our farmers and all they produce at https://www.ncfarmerappreciation.com. Recognize and thank #NCFarmers on social media using #NCFarmersAppreciationDay and #MountainstoSea. Tag @NCFarmersAppreciationDay.

- N.C. ranks 3rd for agriculture diversity and is a top producer of sweetpotatoes, cucumbers, eggs, poultry, pork, and more.
- Most North Carolina schools participate in farm to school activities and serve locally grown foods in school meals.
