Why wait? Considering the 8th grade at Eagle Hill School.

Each year, Eagle Hill School welcomes a small group, usually around 12-15 students, who begin their journey with us in the 8th grade. There are many reasons. Parents may be seeing their child's confidence waver during middle school. A student could benefit from more specialized instruction in reading or simply more substantial opportunities in athletics and the arts. For an unhappy student who is not thriving or reaching their potential in their current school, making the leap to a more supportive community can be more effective than being asked to "hold on" through another difficult year.

Our 8th graders are fully incorporated into our school community with customized academic scheduling based on their levels in reading, writing, and math. Our boarding 8th graders live with other 8th and 9th graders, supported by caring, involved dorm parents who are life coach certified.

It's only one year but it can make a lifetime of difference. For the families you work with, we would say. "Why wait?"
