Support Geaux Goods

Audio	Video
Romaisa Aslam: You're in the lab all day, you're working, and you don't have to worry about what you're going to get for your next meal.	Montage of graduate students at work. Romaisa seated, speaks to the camera. Text: Nearly half of college students nationwide have experienced food insecurity.
Toby True: Geaux Goods is the food pantry that supplies food and resources for all the students at the graduate school, at the medical school, School of Health Professions. it provides really healthy food for us.	Toby, seated, speaks to the camera. Montage of the Geaux Goods Food Pantry.
Romaisa: I love coming here every week. They have different options. And I love to explore whatever new stuff they have at Geaux Goods. It helps alleviate the stress that you have on yourselves because you're studying. Then you also have to worry about, like, your finances.	Romaisa, seated, speaks to the camera. Montage of food pantry.
Toby: Geaux Goods helps me to retain more information. It's going to make me a better doctor in the future, because I was studying more effectively now that I wasn't, you know, starved.	Toby speaks on camera.
Romaisa: we have a lot of people coming here from different states. joining this institute. And they're contributing so much to science. people come here, they can get their meals. And I think it helps them a lot. Like they don't have to worry about where their groceries are coming from or where they can get their next meal. Like, I feel like that helps a lot, maintaining their focus and relieving their stress so they can do a better job in the lab at the same time. The school has their back by providing this resource or like providing go goods. you have medical students. You have graduate students coming here. people from nursing, allied health. the best way you can help them is by providing resources to go goods, because that way they can focus on their studies and they can become better researchers, better doctors, better nurses.	Romaisa speaks on camera. Montage of Geaux Goods. Romaisa, seated on camera. Text: “Support the Geaux Goods Food Pantry LSUHSFoundation.org / Geaux-Goods LSUHS Logo animation.