6. Student Board Member Report

Student Board Member, Charlotte Decker, reported that peer tutoring has begun in the back right corner of the library. It is run by the members of the Mu Alpha Theta (Math Honor Society). It runs for the first 20 minutes of each period with around one - three people assisting. If any students need help in math, they are encouraged to go there during their free period.

She continued, mentioning how very proud everyone is of our boys' varsity soccer team for winning the Nassau County Championship. Ms. Decker reminded everyone of the fall play, The Crucible, is this Friday and Saturday at 7:00 p.m. Tickets can be pre- purchased online. Schools are closed this coming Wednesday through Friday for Thanksgiving with all schools having an early dismissal this Tuesday. Check the website to see what time your school gets out.

Tryouts for winter sports haves begun and games will begin within the next two weeks, so come out and support our winter sports.

The community planning day is next month. Anyone in the community that's interested can apply through the link on the district website including high school students.

She concluded by congratulating the top 10 students and saying that everyone is so proud of your accomplishments and can't wait to see what you do in the future.

Updates

1. High School Profile

Dr. Alexa Doeschner, presented via PowerPoint with a profile that follows all of our students who apply to colleges and went on to say that it is a first look at what college admissions offices will look at in terms of when they look at a student applying from Glen Cove High School. With many admissions officers seeing thousands of profiles ours now really explains what our students accomplish and the context in which they accomplish it. The outline will show context first showing our students achieve so much with substantially fewer resources in that of many of our neighboring districts. Next shows achievement that we're seeing with a record number of AP participation, rising NYSED endorsed diploma seals and graduates that have been accepted to 116 colleges, universities and career programs and finally we are also seeing a lot of growth over time through multi-year data.

Our high school really reflects a community that is diverse in culture, language, and economic backgrounds. Our students speak 38 home languages The diversity that we see across our students is something that is a strength in our district and we really want the readers of our profiles to see this as well as our students doing more with substantially fewer resources.

Our resources come from three sources, just like every other school district. We get federal aid, state aid, and local tax revenue in which we receive less from each of them than many of our neighbors. We ask admissions officers who are looking at our candidates to read each record with that context in mind. Dr. Doeschner shared these numbers through her presentation.

2. Portrait of a Graduate - Progress Update
Dr. Doeschner introduced Mr. Klatsky, who presented via PowerPoint on some of the latest updates from New York State about the graduation changes.

Mr. Klatsky stated that as the district gets updated information from the board of regents the information will be sent out via ParentSquare as well as it will be shared through parent teacher conference with grade level handouts providing directly what these changes mean for each student at every grade level. His presentation included some of the most recent updates that came from a recent board of regents meeting. He explained in detail what the big headline for us is that regents are still required but not a criteria for graduation.

He explained that the regent exams are used to serve two purposes; one was for federal accountability, and the other for graduation. The state has now removed the second of those two criteria. So, the regents exams are no longer required for graduation, but they are still required at this point in time for federal accountability. This information was announced in November of 2026. Currently we know that students for at least the next two years and through the spring of 2030 will be required to take four regents' exams during their high school career. One in each subject of ELA, math, science, and social studies with more details to come.

Students pursuing an advanced regent's seal on their diploma will still be encouraged to take the regents exams in order to earn that advanced designation. Mr. Klatsky reiterated that our current seniors are still following the old process and continued by stated that next year's students will be required to take regent exams, however, if they do not pass the regents it will not keep them from graduating. He also mentioned that they have implemented throughout the district a no harm policy for our regent exams. Meanings that when students take those regent exams, those scores can only possibly help their GPA and he continued in saying that for next year's seniors rather than having either a local and advanced regents' diplomas, there will be one diploma with seals and endorsements that can be added. The big concern for students who are currently on an advanced regents pathway who've been working really hard taking those advanced regents, Mr. Klatsky reassured those families that it is our understanding that those students should continue down that advanced regents pathway and should still anticipate taking all of those regents exams with the expectation that they will need to pass those exams and master those exams to earn the seal on their one diploma not this June but for next June.

Another piece of really relevant information was shared that's really good news for Glen Cove that came out of the most recent board of regents meeting is the increased importance of seals and endorsements. So, as the state moves towards one diploma, those diplomas will have seals and in some cases stickers or embossed stickers and endorsements that go on the diplomas. Mr. Klatsky also mentioned that it appears that the state will start measuring the performance of high schools based on their progress toward college and career readiness as measured by students who are doing things like taking dual enrollment courses, CTE programs, or taking more challenging courses. The district is continuing to message families that the regents exams are here to stay and that they will be using them to guide our instruction starting next year. Students will be required to take them, but they will be under our new no harm policy meaning that it cannot negatively affect a student's GPA.

Bryce stated that we're working on strengthening our local assessment strategy, looking at new courses, revising old courses, looking for ways to integrate authentic assessments, performance-based learning experiences, and coordination with local businesses in some cases to make those real world projects. We're continuing to widen our access to advanced coursework, CTE (career technical education), and hopes to have an update by the next board meeting and promised to continue to keep families informed.
